This Convention in Singapore is very timely as 'Risk Management' is at a nascent stage. Today, no business transaction takes place without taking risk. The best models on Risk Management are somewhat fragmented and disconnected from overall business strategy. In the aftermath of controversy at some top performing corporations in India and global, the issue of Corporate Ethics is a burning question of the day.

The objectives of the Convention are to encourage the growth and development of risk resilient enterprises in the face of unprecedented risks such as financial, cyber frauds, environmental and the challenge of sustainable growth that organisations face today. The need of the hour is to work on creating an ethical culture within organisations for not only improved Corporate Governance, but also to thwart global risks as Indian companies spread their reach in the international markets.

A large number of experts will be sharing their insights and wisdom on how to penetrate and manage corporate Risk to stay relevant and competitive.
